Explanatory Note on Jury Service Leave

The Juries Act, 1976 provides that every citizen aged between 18 and 70 years who is entered in the Dail Electoral Register may be called for jury service, with the following exceptions: Certain professional categories are excused as of right, including:

s; Dentists; Pharmacists; and Medical Practitioners

An employee who has served (or attended to serve) on a jury in the previous three years may be excused by the county registrar. A judge may also excuse a juror from service for a period of time.

Employers have a duty to allow employees to attend for jury service. However, if it is not possible due to service requirements to allow the employee to attend, s/he may be granted a certificate from the appropriate manager, stating that it would be contrary to the public interest for him/her to serve as a juror because s/he performs essential and urgent services of public importance that cannot reasonably be performed by another or postponed.

An employee is treated as employed during any period s/he is complying with a jury summons. Thus, an employee is entitled to pay (basic plus any regular allowances e.g. long-term acting up and continuous location allowances) and continues to accrue entitlements to annual leave, incremental credit, etc, while on jury service.
